Austria: White Wine

Laurenz Und Sophie Singing Grüner Veltliner 2007 Niederösterreich $18.95 (087627)

Floral aromas are dominant here, giving the taster an initial impression that they might be trying a Viognier. Then more typical Grüner aromas appear with pink grapefruit and apricot fruits followed by a chalky minerality and a touch of fresh grass. Although it carries refreshing acidity, the wine somehow exhibits a dense creaminess in the mouth. It's light bodied and delivers a fresh citrus finish. If you haven't tried Austria's great white hope, I'd suggest starting here because this is a great example. This is another very versatile food wine, equally at home with lighter seafood or poultry in a dill cream sauce. (MT)
